FORM 11E – RECORD OF EXAMINATION OF SECLUDED PERSON AND POSSIBLE EXTENSION OF SECLUSION

Notes: Form 11E – Record of examination of secluded person and possible extension of seclusion

When to use this form:

A medical practitioner must examine the person at least every 2 hours and record the results of the examination using this form. The record must include whether or not the medical practitioner considers that, having regard to the criteria specified in section 216(1), the person should continue to be secluded (s222).

A medical practitioner may make an order extending a seclusion order from the end of the period of seclusion under the seclusion order for a further period (not exceeding 2 hours), using this form.

The medical practitioner cannot extend the seclusion order unless immediately before doing so, the medical practitioner examines the person (s218).

Criteria for authorising seclusion:

Seclusion can be authorised when (s216(1)):

- The person needs to be secluded to prevent the person from:
 - physically injuring themselves or another person; or
 - persistently causing serious damage to property; and
- there is no less restrictive way of preventing the injury or damage.
